

marzo • March 2023

Sunday	Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	Friday	Saturday
From the disaster in East Palestine, Ohio, to the struggle for community control of the “arsenic triangle” in the East Phillips neighborhood of Minneapolis - environmental (in)justice spans the rural-urban divide and demands we address its connections to capitalism, economic inequality and policing.			1 Four Puerto Rican Nationalists open fire inside US Congress to draw attention to repression against independentistas. 1954.	2	3 The Chicano Blowouts begin - high school walkouts, 10,000 strong, demanding bilingual education and Mexican-American studies. Los Angeles, 1968	4
5	6	7	8 Needletrades women strike over wages, hours and child labor in NYC. Later commemorated as International Women's Day. 1909.	9	10	11
12 Disability rights activists spur Congress to pass the Americans with Disabilities Act by organizing the “Capitol Crawl”. 1990.	13	14	15	16 Solidarity activist Rachel Corrie is killed by the Israeli Defense Forces while defending a Palestinian home from demolition. 2003.	17 The New York Conspiracy, a multiracial uprising by African slaves, indentured servants and Irish immigrants sends shockwaves through the colonies. 1741.	18 US Postal Workers wildcat (illegal) strike begins, resulting in better wages and working conditions and the formation of the American Postal Workers Union. 1970.
19	20	21	22	23	24 High school students lead March For Our Lives in support of ending gun violence. 200-800,000 attend in Washington, D.C. 2018	25 Triangle Shirtwaist Factory fire kills around 150 workers, mostly young immigrant women, in NYC. 1911.
26	27	28 Martin Luther King, Jr. leads striking sanitation workers on march in Memphis, six days before he is assassinated. 1968.	29	30	31	